FIFTY YEARS AGO

How dear to my heart, is the home of my childhood.
The town of old Lehi, that I love so well,
The streets, and the gardens, and old fashion houses
And the old adobe school house where we rang the bell.

How dear is the church, where we all went to worship.
Nearby stood the flag pole and the library as well
And the dear old Bishop, how well we all remember
His prayers and his sermons, that made our hearts swell.

Oh where is the Fort Wall and the old titling office
And the old fashion scales, our tithe we weighed as well
And the old mud fence, that surrounded the hay stacks?
If they could but speak, what stories they'd tell.

How well I remember the bridge over the river
And the wooden toll-gate, that opened so well
Where Messers. Ball, Colledge and Jenkins together
Collected the shekels, their purses to swell.

Yes, well I remember, the cold springs over the river,
The Union exchange and Ben Lott's sorrel mule,
The mill and the pond, where we went swimming together,
When the boys ran away from Will Thurman's day school.

Shall I ever forget, the drilling and marching
And the old Enuff band of drums and fifes
And how we shouldered the musket and learned how to use it,
While guarding the Fort by day and by night.

And what of the band that was lead by the Foxes,
That praded the streets, oh where are they now,
And the old Kirkham orchestra, oh what are they doing
Have they quit their violins for the hoe and the plow?

Oh where are the Taylors, the Standings and Hatches,
The Winn, the Murdocks and Mahoneys galore,
And the tree by the church, can we ever forget them?
Not while we remember, poor Harry Longmore.

Then I remember the Hammers, and Wedges
The Mallets, the Nagles and the Petersons to
The Olmsteads and Royles, the Briggs and the Empeys,
The Evans, the Vaughns and the Worltons all true.

And there was the Bushmans, the Allreds and Losces,
The Zimmermans, Andersons, the Ellingsons as well,
The Bones, the Carters, the James, the Harwoods,
When gathered together what stories they'd tell.

Yes, where are the Becks, the Andressons and Foxes,
The Thomas', Williams, Loveridges as well,
The Powells, the Southwicks the Yates' and others,
Oh where are they now, can anyone tell.

Now there was the Bradshaws, the Martins and Ross',
The Fields, the Woodhouses and Hendersons also.

The Claytons, the Waystuffs, Nortons and Mulliners,
The Daviss', Comers, the Smiths and the Snows.

What of the Austins, the Rhodes and the Russos,
The Rackers, the Larsens and the Jacobs to
The Pecks and the Holmes, the Farth-inghams and Molens,
The Gilchrista, Goates and Clarke we all knew.

Next was the Bensons, the Downs and the Drewerys,
The Robinsons, Christoffersons, Wilcox and Gibbs,
Broadbents, Simmons, Phillips and Gurneys,
Powells and Colledges, Wanlass' and Webbs.

There was the Wines, the Wings and the Sabays,
The Hutchings, Turners, Goodies and Shaws,
The Goodwins, the Jacksons, the Munns and the Bryants,
The Lambs and the Lewis' and a great many more.

Now comes the Ransoms, McOmles and Jones',
The Woodards, the Ashtons, Millers and Cox,
Dawsons, the Karren, the Tranes and the Walkers,
The Bells and the Martins and the families of Lotts.

There was the Hewletts, the Dorton and the Howes,
The Ericksons, Knudsens, the Sparks and Browns,
The Grays and the Garsides, the Peckels and Brooks,
Sharps, Hawkins and Roberts, that made us all look.

For Gudmundsen, Sorepsens, Partlages ages and Goughs,
Whitmans, Cutlers, Mears and Potts, Leggs and Longs, Earls and Schows,
Slaters, Masons, Wells, and so, now.

Gone are they, yes, but none are forgotten
Though many are resting, peacefully 'tis said,
Silently waiting, sleeping not waking
On the hill side amid the City of the dead.

—James Kirkham, Jan. 1, 1922.

Izaak Walton.

Izaak Walton is a name held in sweet remembrance by thousands who love the outdoor life, and he is so remembered by his book, "The Compleat Angler, or Contemplative Man's Recreation." Although angling, or fishing is the subject, the writer goes beyond it, and gives expression to many fine thoughts respecting streams and fields and flowers. It is the work of a kind and gentle soul alive to the beauties of nature.
